Outline

- PPIC Statewide Surveys
- General Perceptions
- Fiscal Attitudes and Policy Preferences
- Conclusions
Conclusions

- Low and declining approval of state elected officials’ handling of K-12 education
- Most residents very concerned about state budget cuts to K–12 and teacher layoffs
- Majorities of adults give not so good/poor ratings on college and workforce preparation
- More willingness to pass local school bonds or increase local parcel taxes than to raise state taxes
- Improving K–12 seen as high priority for next governor and an important issue in 2010 election
