Sutton Family Speaker Series
Climate Change and California’s Future

December 3, 2013
12:00 p.m. – 2:00 p.m.
Bechtel Conference Center at PPIC
San Francisco, CA

PARTICIPANTS

Mark Baldassare is president and CEO of the Public Policy Institute of California, where he also holds the Arjay and Frances Fearing Miller Chair in Public Policy and directs the PPIC Statewide Survey. He has also served as PPIC’s director of research. He has authored ten books, including The Coming Age of Direct Democracy: California’s Recall and Beyond. Before joining PPIC, he was a professor of urban and regional planning at the University of California, Irvine. He has conducted surveys for the Los Angeles Times, the San Francisco Chronicle, and the California Business Roundtable. He holds a Ph.D. in sociology from the University of California, Berkeley.

Steven Chu is the William R. Kenan, Jr. Professor of Physics and professor of molecular and cellular physiology at Stanford University. He has devoted much of his recent scientific career to the search for new solutions to energy and climate challenges. From 2009 to 2013 he served as the 12th U.S. secretary of energy under President Obama. Before that, he was director of the Lawrence Berkeley National Laboratory and professor in both physics and molecular and cell biology at the University of California, Berkeley. From 1987 to 2004, he was the Theodore and Frances Geballe Professor of Physics and Applied Physics at Stanford. The holder of ten patents, he has published hundreds of scientific and technical papers. He has received many awards and honorary degrees, including a share of the 1997 Nobel Prize for Physics. He holds a Ph.D. in physics from the University of California, Berkeley.

Michael Krasny hosts KQED’s Forum, the nation’s most-listened-to locally produced public radio talk show. Before he joined KQED in 1993, he hosted a night-time talk program for KGO Radio and co-anchored the weekly KGO television show Nightfocus. He has also hosted programs on Bay-TV, KQED-TV, KTVU, and KRON. He has been a professor of English at San Francisco State University since 1970, and has taught at Stanford University and the University of California, San Francisco. He is a widely published scholar and literary critic, a fiction writer, and a guest and frequent interviewer on the City Arts and Lectures stage. He has worked widely as a facilitator and host in the corporate sector and as moderator for major nonprofit events. He holds a Ph.D. in English from the University of Wisconsin–Madison.

Mary D. Nichols is chair of the California Air Resources Board (ARB). She served as ARB chair during the Schwarzenegger administration (2007–10) and was reappointed by Governor Brown in 2011. She first served as ARB chair from 1979 to 1983, during Governor Brown’s first tenure. At ARB she is responsible for implementing California’s landmark greenhouse gas emissions legislation as well as setting air pollution standards for motor vehicles, fuels, and consumer products. She has also served as California’s secretary for natural resources (from 1999 to 2003) and as head of the Office of Air and Radiation at the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency during the Clinton administration. She holds a J.D. from Yale University.

Sonja Petek is a research associate at the Public Policy Institute of California. She participates in the planning, design, and management of the PPIC Statewide Survey. Before joining PPIC, she worked at the Henne Group in San Francisco, managing qualitative and quantitative research projects focused primarily on health/sexual health and HIV prevention. She serves on the executive council of the Pacific Chapter of the American Association for Public Opinion Research. She holds a B.A. in political science from Stanford University.

George P. Shultz is a distinguished fellow at the Hoover Institution at Stanford University. He served in the Reagan administration as chairman of the President’s Economic Policy Advisory Board and secretary of state. From 1974 to 1982, he was president of Bechtel Group, Inc. During the Nixon administration, he served as secretary of labor, director of the office of management and budget, and secretary of the treasury. Before he entered politics, he taught at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) and the University of Chicago School of Business, where he was dean for several years. He is honorary chair of the Stanford Institute for Economic Policy Research and chairs the Shultz-Stephenson Task Force on Energy Policy at the Hoover Institution, the Precourt Institute for Energy Efficiency Advisory Council at Stanford University, and the MIT Energy Initiative External Advisory Board. He holds a Ph.D. in economics from MIT.