Nancy Pelosi is the 52nd Speaker of the House of Representatives. She has represented San Francisco, California's 12th Congressional District, for more than three decades. In January 2019, she became the first person in more than 60 years to regain the Speaker's gavel, after having been the first woman elected Speaker in 2007. Over the past few years, she has kept House Democrats united through the government shutdown in 2018–19, the presidential impeachment, and the congressional response to the COVID-19 pandemic. She has been a House leader for 18 years and has an extensive record of legislative achievement that includes historic health insurance reform, key investments in college aid, measures to promote clean energy and innovation, and initiatives to help small businesses and veterans. She has long been a powerful voice for civil rights and human rights around the world. In 2013, she was inducted into the National Women's Hall of Fame. She holds a BA in political science from Trinity College in Washington, DC.
